Catarrhal inflammation of the mucous lining of the kidneys, also called "Bright's disease," may be either acute or chronic, The acute form produces symptoms of such prominence that the serious nature of the disease is at once suspected, but the chronic variety may come on so gradually and insidiously that its presence is not suspected until after it has fastened itself thoroughly upon its victim.

The symptoms may make themselves felt so gradually as to escape notice for a long time, or manifest themselves suddenly and produce at once alarm. There is pain in the back and loins, at first slight, and occassional afterwards, becoming a steady, dull, heavy pain. There is more or less fever and restlessness, according to the severity of the attack. Also among the early symptoms there is some disturbance of the organs of the abdomen, especially the stomace.

At the appearance of the first symptom Peruna should be taken in tablespoon doses six times each day; or, if more convenient, two tablespoonfuls three times each day before each meal. This remedy strikes at once at the very root of the disease.

Maj. T. H. Mars, of the First Wisconsin Cavalry regiment, writes from 1425 Dunning street. Chicago, Ill., the following letter:
